Effective Ministry for Today's Church

Church Leadership: 2010

This workshop will equip congregational leaders for ministry to today's rapidly changing environment, in ways that are tailored to your own congregation and community. The workshop design will allow you and other leaders from your congregation time to plan and interact with congregational development consultants, and to learn more about leveraging the specific dynamics of your congregation for creative ministry in today's rapidly changing society. We will utilize models and theories of organizational development for the unique challenges of resort area ministries.

Becoming God's Community

The most important thing we can do today is to become authentic, practicing Christians living our faith inside and outside the church. This means intentional commitment to faith formation for all ages, disciplined discernment about God's mission, and passionate action taken for sharing the love of God with others in proclamation and service. These workshops will address how, as individuals and communities, we can live out this commitment to growing in our Christian faith and life.
